A highly motivated and enthusiastic individual with a strong passion for Project Management and community development. I have successfully led digital product projects like 'Lokalin' and 'Eatenly,' where I managed everything from business strategy using the Business Model Canvas (BMC) to technical coordination with my team. My experience in international organizations like AIESEC and leadership roles in student clubs has sharpened my skills in partnership building, stakeholder management, and public speaking. I am a proactive team player who is eager to learn, adapt, and contribute to innovative projects that create a positive impact.
